THE NOWNYLL OF THE NETHERATONS.

THE COUNTY AND THE NETHERATONS THE COUNTY AND THE NETHERATON

Two letters addressed to Mr. J. G. Bennett, of the New York Heraid, by Dr. Livingstone, have been published. The first of these letters was written at Ujiji, and is dated November, 1871. Dr. Livingstone, have been published. November, 1871. Dr. Livingstone speaks in warm terms of the sast-stence brought to him by Mr. Steinly at a most critical period, and describes the miserable condition to which he was reduced by the rescally conduct of a native to whom his supplies had been entrusted. He had been without news from home fer years, except such as he could gleen from a few Saturday Reviews and copies of Funch for 1888. The information Mr. Stanley was enabled to give him of the great political changes on the Continent and elsewhere thrilled him therefore, and had an immediate and beneficial effect upon his bealth. Dr. Livingstone, in conclusion, says that if his disclosures should lead to the suppression of the East Coast slave trade, he should regard it as a greater matter by far than the discovery of all the Nile sources together.

The second letter refers at some length to Dr. Livingstone's discoveries, but its chief object seems to be to direct attention to the slave trade in Eastern Africa. He says the whole traffic is a gross outrage on the common haw of mankind, and goes on to describe the negrees.— The natives of nearly all the high leades of the interior of the contisent are, as a rule, fair average speciment of humanity. I happened to be present when all the head men of the great chief Insama, who lives west of the south end of Tangan, yits, had come together tof make peace with cortain Anaba who burned their chief town, and I am certain one could not see more finally-formed, intellectual heads in any arsembly in London or Paris, and the faces and forms cor-rot have employed the chief slave trader Luddha (since dead), to sid me by sending alaves, who all believe firmly that they are not to follow, but force me back. I shall not spare the villans who have caused me the loss of two years in time, over 1800 miles of tramp, and I do not know how much money, but all will come right at last.

Pr. Livingstone's sen written to the Times to say that the extreme joy silned to him during his sejoura at Zannhar by the news of his father's safety was painfully marred by the sed, and he is thoroughly convinced, erromous, optionar prevalent in his mind during Mr. Stanley's travels with him in respect of his old and trasty friend, hr. John Kirk, "Before leaving Xanzions (Mr. Livingstone adde) I did my utmost, by writing to Dr. Livingstone adde) I did my utmost, by writing to Dr. Livingstone added labels in possession of that which I devoutly hope may neutralise influences under which he isboured, and also tend to reunite those old bonds of friendship which never should have been imperiiled by microscoptions.

is most necessary and important, it may this autumn be found weak and wanting.

MR. JUSTICE KEOGH.

Mr. Justice Lawson, in opening the Tyrone Assiss on July 15, congratulated the grand jury on the remarkable picture of peace and order presented by that county. There were only five cases for trial. Mr. Justice Koegh, replying to an address from the Tyrone grand jury, will be a subject on the county. There were only five cases for trial. Mr. Justice Koegh, replying to an address from the Tyrone grand jury, will be a subject to the county—one of the largest and most important in the high of the saddress you have read. As the grand inquest of this county—one of the largest and most important in liceard—you discharge judicial functions without which the machinery of the law sannot be set in mution, and I know nobody more interested in the vindication of the Bench or better entitled to pronounce upon the attempts now openly made to reduce it to subjection. From this piace I shall not stoop to explain or justify anything I have assid or done in the discharge of my judicial duty. I have no such intention: and be seared I shall never surrender the trust confided to me by my Sovereign, to whom alone I owe allegiance, to the dictates and unenaces, secret or open, of any person, body, or ever claiming to have authority or jurnationion within the realm. Should it please the Legislature in the wisdom to aximpt, as of old, any man from being amenable to two cortinary tribunals, it will be the duty of the Bench to conform to and carry out the decision; but, unless that is done, I sm not able to recognise my distinction of person, profession, or class, and I shall continue, as I have danded, is mn of able to recognise my distinction of person, profession, or class, and I shall continue, as I have denoted their admitted the subject of my judgment, to administer and expound the laws of finglind, and no other.

The grand jury of Donegal have presented to Mr. Justice Koegh, and and many election is the unconstitutional attacks whic the locality I have aiready alloads.

The district was pastoral in its origin, and among the sarliest settlere here in 1830 were Mr. Peter Brodie and Mr. W. H. Warland (after whom one of the spurs from the main range is called), who purchased large existes for the purpose of sheep farming. There is a good deal of agriculture on the banks of the Page, and there are several suburban villages. The population of the district, according to the last census, was 4300° and the population of the valley itself 1100. There are many respectable buildings in the town, and they are chiefly of brick. A large School of Aris is in course of erection; and the hospital, which is capable of accommodating twelve patients at one time, has proved very media. The Public school contains nineity-three children, and is asquat, billious-looking tonement, which, if there is that amount of public spirit in the inhabitants for which I give them credit, they will not suffer long to remain. The four denominations numerically greatest have each churches in the township, that of the Roman Catholic being the best—but none of these structures are much to boast of, In 1870 the town was flooded, and the river flowed down the main street. Since then, however, an embantment has been constructed, and the residents live in hope that they will be hereforth be protected from any more watery visitations of that sort.

To-morrow the Governor and party attend divine service at the Anglican Church. On Monday morning they breakfast at the A. A. Co.'s station at Warrah, fitnes miles out. They leave here at 2.25 is the afference of both at the station of the statio

The Burrangong Gold Mining Company's property is situate at Stoney Creek, near Young, and consists of a valuable quarts reef in four leases, containing in all twenty-two acres, or 1640 feet, on the base line of reef, held under the Gold-Seids Regulations.

The prospecting claim consists of four acres, or 200 feet, on the base line of reef, on which two shafts have been sumh—the first to a depth of 30 feet, striking the reef, which at this depth was only one feet thick; the second shaft to a depth of 115 feet, striking the reef, which at this depth was only one feet thick; the countd shaft to a depth of 115 feet, striking the reef was consistent of the control of the first to a depth of 15 feet, striking the reef two feet thick, well defined and shewing good gold.

The claim No. 1 South of the Prospecting, consists of eight acres, or 600 feet on the base line of reef, and the other to a depth of 107 feet, showing the reef two feet wide, and the other to a depth of 150 feet, supposing a reef four feet wide, crashings from which yielded over one common to the ten.

The claim No. 1 Secute consists of four acres, or 200 fee on the base line of reef. This claim being held in reserve by the owners of the Prospecting Claim, week has not been commonced. The claim No. 2 Secrit, consists of six acres, or 440 feet on the base line of reef. Two shafts have been such to a depth of thirty feet, striking the reef nearly two feet wide, but no crushing has yet taken place from this claim.

The stone already crushed from this property has reclaim.

The stone already trushed from this property has resulted as follows:—
From Prospecting Claim 115 tens yielded 55 or. 5 dwts.

"" 110 tens yielded 131 or. 0 dwts.
"" 15 tens yielded 131 or. 0 dwts.
"" 15 tens yielded 35 or. 15 dwts.

No. 1 South " 15 tens yielded 35 or.

and the last crushing of a small quantity at the Mint yielded at the rate of 4 or. 5 dwts. to the ton.

The reef in the several claims is well defined, and the stone can be raised at a very small appears, as it is believed twenty men can raise 120 tons of stone per weak, which taking at the very low average of one ounce to the ton, will show a next return for divisionals of over 2300 per weak, which taking at the very low average of one ounce to the ton, will show a next return for divisionals of over 2300 per weak, when a crushing machinery, none being in the district. The stone already trushed has been carried to Greafell, and the necessary quarte-crushing machinery, they have agreed to emissions the four claims and form them into a company with the small capital of $13,560, out of which $300 will be placed to the cordinate maniferance in the company for working onesital and providing a crushing machine. The share-holders have accepted the company for working order, for $2000.

The shareholders, who are principally working miners, have such confidence in the future of the mine that they prefer taking nearly all their interest in the claims, in shares in the company, in preference to a money consider shares in the company action.

The Proprietors, without dwelling further on the merits of this valuable property, have every confidence in placing the Company before the public, and can recommend same as a eafe and prediable investment, and a Company from which large dividends may be anticipated at an early date, as the reet has been proved to a depth of 130 feet, and a start of the property requires. which large divinence may as the red has been proved to a depth of 130 feet, and a large quantity of stone exposed to view, and only requires machinery on the property to make it rank amongsit the best dividend-paying Companies in the colony.

This Company is formed for the purpose of purchasing and working the above highly valuable property, cassisting of one hundred and forty across leased from the Queensland Government situated at Listowel Down.

The value of this extraordinary discovery cannot be over-estimated, as will be seen from the report (appended) of Mr. T. T. Jones, who has just returned from an inspection of the property, and who companys the stones to the calebrated Hungarian Noble Opal.

The opale brought from the Company's ground were seen in Queensland by Mr. Ulrich, F.G.S., late of the Geslegical Survey of Victoria, and well known as a himeralogist, and in Sydney by many connoisesure and must of cience, including the Rev. W. B. CLARER, F.G.B., and Mr. MILNER STEPHER, Y.G.S., the latter having recognised one species of matrix as identical with the Porphyry of the famous thungarian precious Opal, specimens of which he has lest from his cabinet, for the purpose of comparison.

recimens of which he has lent from no cooming.

These grathenen pronounce them to be the highest class of "Roble or Precious Opal," and quite equal to the famous Hungarien opals in fire and in breadth and variety of the "flashes" of colour, many of those brought down and on view at hir. T. T. Josz's, the well known Jewillery Establishment, being distinguished as "Harlequin Opals," because of their sparkling profusion of particulous.

quin Opals," because of their sparkling profusion of particuioture.

Two precious opal mines only are known: that of Czerwenitzs, in Hungary, has been worked ever since the year 1400, i. n., for 472 years. If, therefore, the analogy which exists as to mineral conditions, between all the genes and other minerals found in foreign countries and Australia, holds good in respect to the precions opal, this extensive opal mine premises to become a lasting investment, and to yield spineful returns, so in Hungary at this day.

As to the value of opals, in the last edition of Ure's Dictionary, p 312, it is stated that in "modern times fine opals of moderate bulk have been frequently sold at the price of dismonds of equal size;" and Harry Emanuel, in his work on Precious Biones, p. 185, says: "The value of the precious opal depends sufferly on the brilliancy and play of its colours, and any attempting at pricing it would be an idle task. For large fine game of extraordinary beauty as much as £1000 has been paid; fine ring or trom 5s to £20 per piece. They are very rarely sold per cars."

In alseling this property before the public, it must be carst."

In placing this property before the public, it must be borne in mind that when this important discovery becomes known in Europe the shares will be immensely enhanced in value.

EEPORT OF MR. T. T. JONES.

"To the Proprietors."

"Gentlemen,—I beg to lay before you a report of my inspection of your opal ground, situated at Listowel Iowns, Queensland.

"The property consists of 140 acres, which presents the spperaruse of extinct volcances, the principal mount being atout 150 feet from the base, and consists of a species of clay—popphyry, versions boulders of indurence clay or iron stone, lava, and sandstone, all of which are more or less charged with the precious opal, running in veins of various thicknesses through the stone. Upon ascending this cone I found what I believe to be the cratter, having deep openings, and from which I procured, in less than two hours, some very valuables spectimens, including some of a very rare description.

"On the next day I visited another portion of the ground, and found the same description of opal, with the addition of a variety I had never met with previously, being of a rich supphire blue, full of flashes of fire. This is stated by writers to be very scarce and valuable. After an experience of thirty years I feel justified in stating that these opals are of undrivabled excellence.

"Having very carefully examined the whole ground, I do not hestitate to say that it will prove one of the richest noble opal mines in the world, the value of which it is almost impossible to over-estimate. I confidently assert that there are now above ground many thousand pounds worth of precious opals roady for the hands of the lapidary.

It will be a militarion to you to know that one of the noble opal mines in use varieties. I confidently essent that there are now above ground many thousand pounds worth of precious opale ready for the hands of the lapidary.

It will be a satisfaction to you to know that one of the proprietors, W. F. Berkelman, Eq., reside, close to the ground, which is itself is a sufficient guarantee that your intrests will be in every way protected.

"From the character of the ground it is obvious that the nine can be worked at a minimum cost.

"From the character of the ground it is obvious that the mine can be worked at a minimum cost.

"I am yours, &c. T. T. Jones.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1872.

THE attack upon King ANADEUS of Spain and his Queen was one of the most deter-mined ever made upon the life of a Sovereign. It would be premature to assume under what inspiration this deed was done. It was evidently not the result of individual fanaticisms, evidently not the result of individual fanaticism, much less of the mercenary motives which often lead to such deeds. It immediately presented itself to the King as proceeding from the same party who successfully attacked the King-maker General Prim. That which makes these acts so formidable is that they are evidently the result of party hatred. There are competitors for the Crown: the partisans of the deposed Querk, the supporters of Don Carlos, and the friends of the Duke de Montpensier. Besides these, the Republican party is powerful in the cities. The first thought of a Continental faction, incapable of contending in the field or disputing in the Legislature, is to have recourse to assassination, and persons have never been in the Legislature, is to have recourse to assassination, and persons have never been found wanting to encourage such summary methods as justifiable against a usurper.

The lives of Kings are exposed to incessant peril, particularly in agitated times. Henry IV. of France was assassinated, after nineteen attempts had been made upon his life. He was stopped in a narrow street of Paris, and stabbed in his ceach. The first NAPOLEON persons yearson the infernal machine, when stabled in his ceach. The first NAPOLEON narrowly escaped the infernal machine, when he was on a visit to the theatre. The presence of mind and determination of his coachman saved his life. He stated himself that there were sixty sworn assassins in Paris, pledged to destroy him. A similar attack was made upon Louis Phillippe, which cost the lives of several of his suite, though he himself escaped.

A plot falsely attributed to Mazzini led to an attempt upon the Emperor Navoleon III.
A hollow metallic ball, closely screwed and supplied with fulminating powder, was thrown supplied with fulminating powder, was thrown at the Emperor and his party while proceeding along the public streets. There are eminent men now in Europe on whom is concentrated the intense hatred of great masses of people. The lamentable fate of Mr. Lincoln is in universal remembrance. It is not unlikely to suggest to the men who are dominated by the same passions an imitation of the assassin. Bismark, Thirkes, and we fear others who are in danger from a blind and ungovernable vengeance, hold their lives in their hands. These are perils from which rulers cannot escape by any precaution or any rulers cannot escape by any precaution or any

It is, however, very remarkable that Amadeus seems to have received abundant warning, and that even his QUEEN also had intimation of danger. But for the fidelity and presence of mind of his fidelity and presence of mind of his coachman, he would inevitably have fallen, for one of the horses dropped a few minutes after, mortally wounded. But a courageous young man did not choose to be intimidated, though what honour there is in such courage is clearer to the populace than to those who look at the importance of such a life. The police were stationed along the highway, in plain clothes and well armed. So daring an attack shows that men are to be found against whose fury and subtlety neither wisdom nor courage avails. To kill AMADEUS would be to overthrow the system of which he is the centre, and to open the way, not for another King, but for another war.

The affairs of Spain, although apparently remote, seem always to have possessed a disturbing power of a very fatal nature. Two great French wars in different ages have imperilled Europe, to determine who should be the then future ruler of Spain. Innumerable revolutions have disturbed the balance of power. The disorders of that country tempted NAPOLEON I., and, by THIERS his downfall is ascribed to that interference. The overthrow of LOUIS PHILIPPE was commonly traced to a similar cause, he having precipitated a marriage The affairs of Spain, although apparently cause, he having precipitated a marriage between a son and the Queen's sister. How much the same country has to do with the overthrow of Napoleon III. is known by every one. The incessant conflicts, some-times in the streets, and sometimes in the field, times in the streets, and sometimes in the field, and sometimes in the Legislature, between armed or unarmed factions, have repeatedly engaged the passing attention of Europe. There can be little hope for Spain enjoying liberal Government when every relaxation of despotism is followed by anarchy, and when the triumphs of a party are attended with the unsparing sacrifice of life. In England there were civil wars and life. In England there were civil wars and judicial penalties; but it is remarkable that through the whole Civil War not a single asthrough the whole Civil war not a single as-sassination is on record. What they did they did openly and in the sun, and accepted the responsibility before the nation and posterity. When parties, instead of confining them-selves to legal methods and avowed measures, justify assassination, there is but little hope of any advantage for the country which they pretend to serve.

The effect of a personal attack upon the King appears to have been highly favourable to his popularity. Besides that there is not a large proportion of persons who would justify such deeds in any party, an occasion for loyal demonstrations only has been given. Thousands may be sullen or indifferent; but this will not prevent the acclamations of the multitude appearing like the unanimous voice of the people. The discontented are then silent, and retire from the front. We cannot, therefore, infer that the epoch of conspiracies is over. The same factions which led to seventeen attacks on Heney IV. may persevere, notwithstanding same factions which led to sevenees attacks on Henney IV. may persevere, notwithstanding their failure for a time. Although there have been attacks on the QUEEN, if we except the case of Oxford, there have been none which have imperilled her life. A solitary assassin might endanger it, but the QUEEN has never consider a continue which could make her might endanger it, but the QUEEN has never occupied a position which could make her the object of vengeance from a party. Her admirable self-possession when lately in apparent danger shows that she might adopt the language of ELIZABETH, and say that though she was a woman she had the heart of a King. In countries where there are the elements of despotism, an attack on the life of the monarch has often initiated a regime of blood. A cowardly king is apt to become a san-guinary tyrant where he has instruments to alarm his fears and execute his vengeance. The records of the past show many examples of this alarm, as well as the suspicion and cruelty to which it has given rise.

In the evidence given by Dr. BADHAM before the Civil Service Committee, there was cidentally a reference to the working of the Public School system, to which it is worth while to direct attention. An inquiry as to the probability of candidates rejected at the the probability of candidates rejected at the test examination having come from Public schools, led to a further question as to whether the system of the education given in those schools was likely to train up young men who would be efficient Government clerks, Dr. Badham replied, "No, not as at present conducted. I think in the first place that the exclusion of history as a subject of instruction in the Public schools is fatal. I think the want of some language, either French or Latin, to contrast their own language with, is another objection. I think the system altogether is much too mechanical. They rely a great deal on arithmetic, guage with, is another objection. I think the system altogether is much too mechanical. They rely a great deal on arithmetic, and they exercise their lads a great deal in what is called parsing and analysis. But my impression from the last examination and from what I have seen before is, that they do not teach them the real knowledge of language, nor do they teach them to think. It seems to me that the instruction in the Public schools partakes largely of rote work, and that there is very little exercise of the intellect." From this answer it would seem that Dr. Badham has formed a higher idea of the qualifications of a Civil Service officer than Mr. TROLLOFE holds. The nevellist stated that "the ordinary clerk is never called upon for the use of foreign languages; is never called upon for the use of mathematical acquirement; and is rarely called upon for any high amount of erudition." To write, to spell, to cipher—this is the limit of the required intellectual qualifications, and these the Public School system is capable of developing, even if we rate it as these the Public School system is capable of developing, even if we rate it as low as Dr. Badhan does. Mr. Trollors seems to think that clerks are not required to think much, or to exercise their intellect, and that if they are expert punctual routinists that is all that is required of them, and therefore a good rote training at school ought to turn out first-class clerks.

But the fitness of the Public School system But the fitness of the Public School system to turn out good Government clerks is a very unimportant question compared with its fitness generally. For not one pupil in a thousand is wanted for the public service. But the indictment brought by Dr. Badham against the system per se is of general interest. If it is too mechanical, and merely receives the manors without civies. exercises the memory without giving a general stimulus to the intellectual powers, it is in that respect defective. The Public schools are at the basis of our educational system, the University of the summit. great importance that the two extremes should harmonise with each other—that the schools should lead up to the University and that the University should communicate its spirit to the schools. But as matters stand now the University Professor of Languages and Logic chiests to the mode in which the elements objects to the mode in which the elements of the English language are taught, and to the incomplete development of the thinking and reasoning powers in the Primary schools. If the objection is sound, it is important, and the subject deserves a careful At the same time, we must judge the Public

At the same time, we must juage the rubne School system in the light of its special aim. That aim is not primarily to eliminate the clever children, to prepare them for a rise in life, and to make their first training preliminary to more scholastic studies. These schools exist for the sake of the many object is to be a universal preventative of ignorance—to ensure that every citizen should the system must be adapted to ensure this end as thoroughly as possible. Of course, if anything more can be done at the same time well and good, but the specific purpose to be aimed at must never be lost sight of. Taking into consideration the limited time during which children are at school, and the necessity for having a course of instruction necessity for having a course of instruction which must be adapted to the stupid as well as to the clever, it is almost impossible in the present state of affairs to hope for anything like classical training. The advantage of learning a second language no one will dispute. Yet under the circumstances we are dispute. Yet under the circumstances we are compelled to find out how to give the best practical acquaintance with our mother derived from practical acquaintance with our mother tongue without the advantage derived from comparison with either an ancient or modern language. There can be no doubt that too many of the children at home are in the habit of hearing barbarous, corrupt, and ungrammatical English—that the school teaching has in the second in the habit of hearing barbarous, corrupt, and ungrammatical English—that the school teaching has, in this respect, to contend with a special disadvantage, and that therefore some special effort is required to neutralize this evil. Admitting this, however, to be the case, we are strongly disposed to sympathise with Dr. Badhan's raid on "what is called parsing and analysis" and have considerable doubts whether the time and labour bestowed on this study might not be more usefully employed in the cause of good English. The philosophy of English grammar is a somewhat abstruse subject.

Dr. Badhan speaks approvingly of the masters, but thinks that the inspection might be better than it is. The Council of Education, as is well known, has always shown a preference to the appointment of schoolmasters. There are two clear advantages in this plan, first, that it holds out prospects of promotion; and second, that those who have climbed the ladder from the step of pupil-teacher to that of inspector are thoroughly conversant with every detail of the system. But Dr. Badhan seems to think that he may be too conversant, that is to say, too exclusively conversant with it, and that he may be so bound in it by the routine as not to be able to rise above it—that he will be satisfied with mere excellence in the particular system, and will be unable or unwilling to suggest reforms; and he seems to wish that inspectors, if not University men, should have some of the qualifications which a University training is adapted to impart.

to impart. The great deficiency in spelling exhibited by rejected candidates, Dr. Badham ascribes to the fact that after a certain point pupils are moved up into classes, where their attention is absorbed by other matters. He also dis-believes that the practice of mental arithmetic in effections in attempthening the thinking faculties. In support of his general criticism on the mechanical character of the Public School system, he stated that a lady who distinguished system, he stated that a lady who distinguished herself in the Public examinations said to him, "I would much sooner go up to be examined by Mr. Pell and yourself, than by the Examiner of the Council of Education, because he would expect me to run everything off the reel out of a certain book, whereas you gentlemen endeavour to ascertain what I really do know, and rather encourage me to treat the subject as I have studied it."

OUR LONDON LEITER.

In sexpletive one is most tempted to make use of in a season such as we are now having is Dirk Hatternick's "Donner und Blitzen." But, wille deluging storms have given us back all the moisture a scorching sun had been fliching away, and our summer bank holiday has fallen on a day that sent Forestera and Oddlellows suesking the drowned rats through the silent streets, and in the end of the end of one can say that in the political or social atmosphere there has been an extraordinary amount of electricity. It is true the labour agitation continues; every class is trying its hand at a strike and seeking to get increased pay with reduced hours of work. Builders and masons have been at loggerhead with the masters for weeks; milliners and dreamakers raise the song of the shirt, and enter the lists with their customers; Wiltshire's mon-rakers' complain of 9s. a week for a family of eight children; Yorkshire housewires strike at the price of butchers' meat; and butcher the price of butchers' meat; and butcher than it is now, never the temptation stronger to substitute in the family your Australian meat, if you would only preserve it in some way that should tickle the palate, and impart a little more relieb to the contents of the tims; for the English labouring man is as particular about his food as the classes above him. If food is dere, other necessaries of life are running at yet higher prices. My cellar has been just stocked with coad at 3st the ton; and steam coad, which in ordinary times would fetch 2s., is asserted years of the supply; some saying the supply and the supply some saying the supply and the supply and the supply and the prices of the supply some supply the condition, which meets next week at Brighton, is in favour of boring for coal in our south-eastern counties—Kent, Sussex, and Surrey, where it is believed that at a depth not too great to be practicable seams of the valuable material will be found; if this hope be well-founded, we shall be willing to sacrifice some of the beauties of our Southern co tation; but one cannot see how the Government could possibly take cognizance of the peculiar character and office of the persons charged.

Two measures long before Parliament have passed to the limbo of temporary settlement. The Ballot is now the law of the land for the next eight years at any rate, though as there is no present prospect of a general election it will probably not receive a trial upon a large scale until the existing Parliament has run through its remaining three sessions. The final struggles over the bill were on the provisions for illiterate voters. It was smartly said by the Times that Mr. Forster would have spent his time to better purpose in rendering the voters less illiterate than in providing for the reception of their illiterate votes; and the sarcasm was justified by the ridiculous proposal that gentleman excogitated and propounded on the part of the Government. In the end, however, due precautions were taken, and the difference between Lords and Commons adjusted; henceforth it will be for the returning-officers to study the measure and apply the large powers entrusted to them under its clauses. The Licensing Bill has been so mended, amended, and emended in committee that it is difficult to say what it really amounts to now it is passed, save that it limits the open hours of public-houses, making exception in favour of houses in large towns and in the vicinity of theatres, that it is highly favourable to the brewers, increasing the value of their property in some cases by more than half. The Indian Badget, as usual, was discussed at the fag-end of the session, and in that empty House which usually attests the profound and intelligent interest which our senators take in the affairs of our Eastern empire. Mr. Fawcett was extremely anxious to see the Indian income-tax repealed, and drew in gloomy colours the picture of Indian finances and society; Mr. Grant Duff, on the other hand, painted all in glowing hues from the Decean to the Himalayas, and assured the honmember for Brighton that hi amount of his capital is it.

The present increased price of coals is exceptionally low from circumstances which cannot continue much longer, and, although the mine can be worked at a handacuse presit even on present rates, as will be seen by the estimate attached, it must be manifest what an advantage the Company will possess now that the price is increased. They are purchasing a valuable property at the lowest state of the market when any alteration MUST be for the better. The following extract from one of the latest papers will show the price obtained in England, and it is ridiculous to suppose that with higher wages we can continue selling coal, as we are now doing, at little more than half the English price.

coal, as we are now doing, at little more than half the English price.

"BOUTH STATYORDSHIER, EAST WORCESTERSHIER, AND WARWICKSHIER."

"Coal is again dearer, and the supply grows more scored from week to week. This week Earl Dudley has advanced coal one shilling, and sick six-pence per ton, and the price of the former at the pit's mouth is now sixteen shillings per ton. Proportionately high rates prevail in all parts of the district, and yet the demand is so greatly in excess of supply that the lack of fuel is keeping numbers of iron muls and forges in only partial operation."

The mine is now producing, with very imperfect appliances, 600 tons per week, and Mr. Winship states that, with 40 additional waggons, it could ship 2000 tons per week, in the actual cost, including every conceivable charge, is 6s per ton on board in Newcastle, which on the present working would pay a dividend at the rate of 15 per cost. per annum: but if 2000 tons per week is disposed of, it would yield even at present price 50 per cent. per annum on the whole capital of the Company, and for every shilling that the price increased, the Company's dividends would improve by 20 per cent.

The coal is highly appreciated by the Swdney and Melbourne Coal Merchants, and the proprietor has the Government contracts for supplying Morpeth and Matthand.

A Deed of Settlement has been prepared, and can be imprected at the Office of the Secretary.

Shares will be allotted to the first applicants, and when the whole number are applied for, the list will be immediately closed.

THE WORKING OF THE MINE WILL BE INEXPENSIVE.

There are now from 80 to 160 tons of stone at grass from Ne. 1 North and Albion claims (which will become the property of the Company, together with all atons daily couning to hand.) A trial crushing of 20 tons a few days back gave a return of 95 or. 14 dwts., equal to 4 or. 15 dwts. per ton, after the richest of the stone was reserved, a portion of which is now on view.

A machine can be continually kept going, thereby ensuring to investors a steady and immediate return for their outley.

The report as foot, from a gentleman of long experience as a mixing manager, will give an idea of how the ground has been tested; and since the date of his report sundry telegrams and letters advise of the increasing richness of the since and further development of the reef.

Independent of rest at present being worked, another one—wide and payable—has been cut in sinking the north end claims.

COMPANY.

60 Shares effered to the public—£5 on application, and £5 on allotment. This Company is forming to work an 8-acre Lease, on the Golden Point Line of Reef. On the morth-west portion of the adjoining lease Dr. Kerr's black-follow found the 100-lb, nugget. All quarts related from this claim to be the property of the Company from the time the proper us is issue. Dixen's creating machine is only 150 years from this claim, the quarts can therefore be easily crushed, and the Company will thus be enabled to pay a dividend soon after its formation.

The frankaroona Times of September the 18th says:—"The first claim on this line is Dalley'a, the shaft is down 20 feet, and good stone is being reside. The Morning Star is adjoining Dalley'a, then follow in order Balley and Davesport's (Sussex), and the Frenchman's, from which payable gold has been extracted for two years.

FANILY BERALD.

The ILLUSTRATE LONDON NEWS, in reference to pure literature, speaks of "The FAMILY HERALD, that joy to tens of thousands of innocent English households."

FAMILY HERALD, Monthly, 6d.

The FATURIAY REVIEW says: "The editor is the condidant and confessor in every station of life. The answers to correspondents cannot be fictitious, a romanes and a life history being embodied in almost each of them. Its novels control of the c and tales are quite as well written as the best circulating library stories.

The LITERARY GAZETTE says:—" It must be said of the FAMILY HERALD, Annually, 7s. 6d.

The LITERARY GAZETTE says:—" It must be said of the FAMILY HERALD, but it is the purset reading of all purely amusing literature; it is indeed a family paper."

PAMILY HERALD, Weekly, 1d.

The BRITISH GUARTERLY REVIEW says:—" Under the head of 'The Story Teller,' we have novels and tales simpler and purer in structure than in the pages of the other penny serials... There are charming yerses let into the pages, like sumshine, to brighten them..... It is well considered with reference to its aims, and is various and amusing, with a fair amount of utility intermixed.

FAMILY HERALD, Monthly, d.

Leigh Burt, in his Autobiography, says:—"I call out every week for my FAMILY HERALD, a penny publication qualified to inform the best of its contemporaries."

Title-TORRENS' ACT.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on PRIDAY, 27th September, at 11 o'elects,
The above erribed will sites, in lost to suit purchasers,
Plan at the Rooms,
Terms at sale. HILL and CLISSOLD'S
WELL-KNOWN WOOLWASHING WORKS, CANTERBURY,
for Positive Sale, to close PARTNERSHIP ACCOUNTS.

Terms liberal.

PICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mears. HILL and CLISSOLD—in consequence of the ratirement of the firm from woolwahing and fellanongering—to sell by public suction, at the Boome, Pitt-street, Sydney, on MONDAY, the 7th OCTORES next, The above valuable property. These extensive and complete woolwashing and foll-mongering premises are situated on the south side of Cook's River, opposite the old Sugar Works, and embrace about 20 cores of land, adjoining the Dam, which is now in substantial order. The works are erected high above flood substantial order. The works are erected high above need level, and comprise—ENGINE-HOUSE, containing a highly-finished 26-horse power engine, by Chapman, with large tabular boller equal to 40-horse power.

There is also a small boller in connection with the engine, to economies fuel in firing the large beller. CENTEL-FUGAL PUMP, 3 feet dismester, capable of throwing 30 tons of water per minute. The supply of water is instantible.

exhaustible. Adjoining the engine-room is the SORTING-ROOM, aspable of working 6 sorters, while underneath is the washing place, fitted with spouts and all applicances for 15 washers, the scaking tube being supplied with steam-hatting room. 15 washers, the sonaing time some say, heating power.
These buildings are substantially built of brick and stone, and are all in first-rate order. In addition to the above there are 6 other spouts and tube for second-class wool.
The PACKING and BIK-BOOM is conveniently placed, and is fitted with first-rate press. Adjoining it are the receiving stores, capable of holding 2000 bales of wool under cover.

and is fitted with first-rate press. Asjonning receiving stores, capable of holding 2000 bales of wool under cover.

The DEVING GEOUND adjoins the packing-room, and is between 3 and 4 scree in extent, all well grassed, and admitted to be the quickest drying ground about Sydney.

The WORKS, in full swing, are capable of washing 200 bales of greasy wool per week, and in unexceptionable weather they have turned out even a larger quantity.

The property is only seven miles from the Wool Stores, Circular Quay, by a good read all the way, and is about 15 mile from the Ashfield Railway Station, also by a good read.

Wool absets, drays, horses, herness, wood, and coal to be taken at a valuation by arbitration.

As an investment for capital in one of the most profitable businesses around hydrory, the sale of the above premises offers an unusually favourable opportunity, as they are brought into the market at the very opening of a case on which promises more greasy wool for washing than the average quantity of past years. One other great advantage may also be commented on: The works from first to last are now in perfect order, and are ready to be past to work at six hours' notice without the further obtains of a single shilling. shilling.

Further particulars of this important property may be obtained at the auctioneers, where cards to inercest may also be obtained—it being the captess instructions of the proprietors, who are retiring from these works with a fortune, that wway facility should be afforded into ading purchasers.
